A Business Change

The readers of THE NEW NORTH are to be initiated with a farewell address from one of its proprietors. It will be short, however. I have no further interest in THE NEW NORTH than to wish it success. My connection with the paper has been both profitable and pleasant, and it is with regret that I sever it. A desire to engage in some other business alone caused my retirement from THE NEW NORTH, which paper, now owned by Mr. G. W. Bishop, cannot fail of a prosperous future.

I shall look back over the ten and a half years' experience in THE NEW NORTH with pleasure and satisfaction, believing that in the main the management has given satisfaction to the public. The support it has received and its growth and prosperity is evidence to me, at least, that the efforts of its proprietors in this direction have been appreciated. The paper has always stood for true republicanism and home, first, last and all the time, and the present owner is too well known in this community and surrounding country to make it necessary for me to assure its patrons that that policy will be continued.

I retire from the business leaving it in a thriving, healthy, paying condition, and with a continuance of its present patronage alone it will live and prosper and be a credit to Rhineland.

I thank the subscribers and patrons of THE NEW NORTH, who have been so liberal in their patronage, and the large circle of friends who have assisted in many ways.

Yours very truly,
WM. C. OGDEN.

A PERSONAL WORD.

Having completed a business transaction which is of great importance to me, and at least of interest to the county and section, perhaps it would be well to explain why and what of it.

I have purchased the interest of Mr. W. C. Ogden in the Rhineland Printing Co. and the NEW NORTH. He desired to sell and I could not afford to part with my interests. The NEW NORTH's constituency has been exceedingly good to me, and I could not make any arrangement which would permanently separate me from them. At present my time is fully occupied with duties which will prevent any personal work on the paper. I shall employ an editor. The business and printing department will be under the management of Mr. Jerome C. Teal.

Only results count, and therefore no statement of prospectus will be made, further than to say that THE NEW NORTH will be a newspaper of which this community will not be ashamed.

While Mr. Ogden can speak of his own intentions, I wish to say that the ten years' association I have had with him has proven him to be a man of character, industry, worth and value to any firm or community. I sincerely hope he will not leave here.

The next two issues of THE NEW NORTH will be gotten out by Mr. Ogden, the new editor taking hold about the 15th inst.

GEO. W. BISHOP.

Commence Work.

The Monday Club held its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. A. D. Daniels Monday afternoon. The work this year will be studies in mediaeval history. The program committee, composed of Miss Helen Alban, Mrs. A. W. Shelton and Mrs. D. H. Thomson, spent much time in arranging the program and they are deserving of credit for the excellence of their work. This club is limited in numbers, but is a very pleasant and profitable one in its work. It assembles in the parlors of its members each Monday afternoon, and regular meetings, aside from the holiday adjournment, will be held weekly until the close of April, 1900. The ladies who compose this club are Miss Helen Alban, Miss May Brown, Mrs. A. D. Daniels, Mrs. C. F. Garlinier, Mrs. B. E. Lewis, Mrs. Morris Melroe, Mrs. A. W. Shelton, Mrs. E. G. Squier, Mrs. D. H. Thomson, Mrs. H. M. Woodard.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is a scientific compound having the endorsement of eminent physicians and the medical press. It "digests what you eat" and positively cures dyspepsia. M. A. Ketron, Bloomingdale, Tenn., says it cured him of indigestion of ten years' standing. J. J. BEADON.

A Quick Capture.

Chief of Police Crowe received a telegram from Carver Monday stating that a man named "Billy" Potter had stolen money there and that he was wanted. Potter was located in this city by the Chief Monday afternoon at five o'clock and was promptly taken in charge and locked up. The sheriff of Forest county was notified of the capture and sent his deputy, Wm. Lord, down for the man Tuesday.

Will Meet Oct. 9, 1899

The annual meeting of the Oneida County Agricultural Society which was called for Monday evening, Oct. 2, was adjourned until next Monday evening, Oct. 9, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be held at the NEW NORTH office. All purchasers of season tickets at the fair this year are constituted members of the Society and are earnestly requested to be present at this meeting.

Hoyt's "A Bunch of Keys"

New specialties, new dances, and new songs, have been written for this popular farce comedy. The company is composed of a number of the most clever artists appearing in any farce comedy of the present age. "A Bunch of Keys" comes to the Grand Opera House soon.

A Grand Success.

The dance given by the Ladies of the Maccabees at the New Grand opera house last Friday evening was very largely attended, 115 tickets having been sold. The arrangements were perfect in every way. The Maccabee ladies drill, which preceded the dancing, was an enjoyable feature of the evening, the ladies executing the different evolutions with great credit.

The music by Squier's new orchestra was enjoyed by all, the numbers played being new and pleasing.

The supper which was served by the ladies at twelve o'clock was highly spoken of by those who partook. The quarters of Co. L at the rear of the dance hall were utilized and tables set for twenty couples, the balance taking supper at the Alpine Hotel.

The ladies of the Maccabees deserve credit for having given the dancing public a treat.

The Dog Was Not Dead.

Ben Spooner, the city dog catcher, had an experience Saturday morning that he will remember for several days to come. Ben's attention was called to a miserable looking cur that apparently was suffering from some internal trouble. It was in the street near the front of the Stevens Point saloon and acted very suspicious. Ben didn't care about taking chances and shot at the dog, the bullet passing through the animal near the shoulders. He shot at it again but barely creased its neck. The cur then crawled under the sidewalk and was supposedly dead to the world. Ben tore up the board and reached in to pull out his game when the dog grabbed him by the back of his right hand, inflicting several wicked looking wounds. Ben did not waste any more time with the cur but forthwith made tracks for Dr. Hinman's office and had the doctor cauterize the bites. The dog was located Sunday morning in the rear of the stores and dispatched. Ben's hand is pretty badly swollen and very painful but he apprehends no danger from blood poisoning.

Taken to the Northern Hospital.

Adelbert H. Williams was taken to the hospital at Oshkosh Tuesday morning by Sheriff Wisner, after having been committed by Judge Harrigan upon an affidavit of insanity filed by Doctors Melndoe and Stone.

Williams had but just recovered from an accident, which befell him in Clayton's mill, whereby his left hand had been lacerated and a finger crushed. His mania seem to be that he had acquired a large amount of money through the sale of a home-stead and through pine-land deals, and while he was not violent, his actions were at times of a nature to somewhat alarm those with whom he came in contact.

He was taken in charge by Police man Morris Doyle last Friday night while at the dance given by the Ladies of the Maccabees. Williams had been taking part in the dance and giving more relief than anything I was very anxious not to make a man have ever taken—W. V. Sullivan, Oshkosh. He even insisted upon one lady, Miss— dancing a two-step with him while a quadrille was being played. His apparel was not in keeping with the occasion and the sickening smell of Peruna as a tonic, and am glad to learn which had been used outstayed his injured hand did not help to strengthen, vigor and appetite. I have made his companionship any too delectable advised by friends that it is desirable. It was while he was endeavoring to secure a partner that the officer came in and took him away. On the road over to the jail—Williams struck at his captor and narrowly escaped inflicting a serious wound on the latter's face with his manicured hands. As it was the policeman bled considerably from a glancing blow on the nose.

Williams is an exceptionally good clog dancer and while the doctors were visiting him executed a number of steps that would have pleased an audience almost anywhere. He said that he had been an Irish comedian and, according to the physicians, gave evidence of considerable ability. It is thought a few months' treatment will straighten the man out all right as his case is not bad.

"Les" is Initiated

W. L. Beers received a letter from his son, Leslie, Monday, and in it the latter gives a detailed sketch of his experiences with the "gentlemen" during his first week in the University. Leslie seemed to think that the proper thing to do when the "Supper" asked anything of him was to do it to the best of his ability. According to him when "Les" was crowded into a gymnasium suit and escorted by fifty or more of them toward the lake I made up his mind that rapid action on his part was of vital necessity. When he was asked to make a speech "Les" therefore responded at once, although he states to his father that at the time he did not know what he said, for the cold waters of the lake gleamed but a few feet away, and his raiment was thin and abbreviated. One of his friends told him later that part of his speech ran about as follows: "Gentlemen, if I go into the lake this year I will guarantee that someone will get wet next year." At the word "gentlemen" all of Leslie's escorts took off their hats. After his first remark there were yells of "put him in" and other cheering intimations of what was in store. Just at this time a Junior friend of Leslie's came to his assistance and piloted him out of the crowd and to his locker. "Les" remarked that others were receiving the same treatment and worse every day.

United States Senator Sullivan.

"I desire to say I have been taking Peruna for some time for catarrh, and Williams found it an excellent medicine, was taking part in the dance and giving more relief than anything I was very anxious not to make a man have ever taken—W. ## Married.

BARBARA STRASSER—At St. Mary's Catholic church, Monday morning, at eight o'clock, occurred the marriage of Mr. Paul Baraba and Miss Tressie Strasser, both of Rhineland.

The groom is a brother of S. L. Baraba, who is employed in the store of Geo. P. Dean & Co., and is a workman in the Stevens saw mill.

The bride is a young lady well liked by a large circle of acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Baraba will reside in the Sixth Ward.

The NEW NORTH wishes them success and happiness.

Prosperity is Here

Anyone who doubts it can be convinced by visiting any of the towns in western Iowa or Minnesota on the new lines of the Chicago & North-Western Railway.

People in the immediate vicinity of these towns are quick to see the advantage and are already in advance of the railroad, building stores, restaurants, elevators, lumber offices, etc., etc., but there is room for more. The country is splendid, and will in all cases amply support all lines of business and trade, and in the most of the towns the best locations are still open.

Lots in any of these towns cannot help but be safe and paying investments, as they are still on the market at the original low prices.

For particulars address, J. F. CLEVELAND, Land Commissioner.

THE LAND OF C
BY FRED
COPYRIGHT 1924 BY THE AMERICAN

"No, mother," I said, "I'll tell you what I think. I've come to the conclusion that those Erinofka rascals have nothing whatever to do with it or with us. Their affair was merely a coincidence as regards father and his disappearance. They were there, granted, and they were up to some game which needed secrecy and even murder—a game which involved their secret, but the drug-ged man (I conclude he was drugged, or the sick man was not father. We thought we had struck a trail, but it was a false scent."

"God grant it, dear Horie," said mother, "for I cannot bear to think of your father having fallen into such hands. But why have you come to this conclusion?"

"For two reasons—one is that these fellows had any good reason for haggling father and carrying him away they would not have let him go free as they have done, and the other is that as I have said, no father is free and we know that he is. If his silence and disappearance and all had been brought about by these people, he would certainly communicate with us. There must be another reason for his flight. These Erinofka fellows had nothing to do with it."

Yet, neither I nor mother nor Perc could put forth any good theory to replace the old one, and the situation remained unchanged and the mystery unsolved. We must await further developments from the other side of the water, and trust to Berofsky's talent and exertions to bring light into our dark places, and this he could only do by restoring poor father to his right mind and persuading him to return to us.

I think I should have set out myself presently, in order to see father and find out what he had to say.

My Engagement

WE have all, I suppose, in our lives made blunders—little blunders, big blunders, and so forth, till one reaches the piteous of irretrievable blunder—and I have just escaped from the consequences of one that for the moment was likely to prove irretrievable.

I was—I had foolishly allowed myself to be fascinated by Miss Strangford—yes, fascinated is, I think, just the word to meet the case.

Phyllis is a dear, quite a dear, and for a time I submit I was tottering on the brink. I believe, as a matter of fact, that I did propose once or twice; but, of course, I knew she'd say "no." She's so sensible. But for one awful, terrible moment, at the time I'm going to tell you about, I thought she was going to forget herself and say "yes."

You see, the truth is, one is a little bit afraid of Miss Strangford. Everything will seem to be going swimmingly, and you think you're getting on quite well, and being rather clever, and all that; and then you look up, and you see a something her eyes which sobers you down again. It's in her eyes. Somewhere right at the back of them there's a kind of glistering twinkle that makes you feel that you're a fool.

Now, Laura is not like that. She is clever, and knows all about books, music and then, and the hardy ever smiles. But Miss Strangford just sits curled up in her chair and chatters about nothing in particular, and says funny things which make you laugh, and dresses smartly, and even sometimes smokes cigarettes; and yet directly one begins to talk about deeper subjects she stays quite quiet, and keeps that funny look in her eyes, for all the world as if she was laughing at you to herself.

Last summer, down on the river, we got on awfully well at first; it was later on that I came to the conclusion that it would be a mistake to carry matters further; and as she had just—well, not exactly refused—but put me off for the second time, I thought it better to let the matter drop.

Then I met Laura. Laura adores music. She says that she thinks the color scheme of a ballet most instructive, and has come to the conclusion that it is unconsciously based on the primitive principles of color music. I am sure she's right—like the myself.

I saw a good deal of her after that dinner, and last week we practically became engaged. Naturally I wanted to give her some souvenir to commemorate the day—not the ordinary vulgar ring, but something with a latent meaning to it. Laura is great on latent meanings, so I knew she would appreciate it.

On the morning after the engagement I went to Somerton, the jeweler's off Phyllis, and explained what I wanted. Dickson, their head man, spotted the idea at once.

"You want something with a pretty sentiment in it—something original."

I couldn't think of anything myself, but he showed me a design which he declared would be just the thing. It was a sort of brooch with two hearts, one a ruby and one a diamond. The ruby was supposed to be mine, because Dickson explained that it signified passion and devotion. The two hearts were bound together with a true lover's knot in diamonds—a copy of an old pattern, he assured me, and pretty it looked. I gave him my card to slip into the box when it was sent home.

"What inscription, sir?" he asked, as I was leaving the shop.

Of course, directly he asked me that I was stuck. So I just told him to put the usual sort of thing, and to send it to the young lady at once, together with my card.

Two days later, among my morning's letters, I received a note from Miss Strangford asking me to go to tea. I had intended going to see Laura, but on getting a telegram to put me off, decided to go and see Phyllis.

I was shown into her boudoir and found her, as usual, curled up in an armchair, smoking a cigarette. It struck me that she was extremely pretty, and for one fleeting second I almost wished—that Laura smoked.

Also, if Laura has a fault—which, mind you, I am not prepared to admit—still, if she has a fault, it is that she has quaint ideas on the subject of hair dressing. Now Phyllis is always beautifully "coiffee."

For my part I felt a little uncomfortable, but Miss Phyllis was not in the slightest degree discomposed. There was another man there, and he glared at me a little, but I treated him with deserved contempt. After about ten minutes of desultory chatter he took himself off.

Miss Phyllis watched the door close behind him and then suddenly turning to me she stretched out her hand and said:

"My dear Gerald; how can I thank you?"

I confess that I was considerably taken aback.

"I think," continued Phyllis, without noticing my interruption, "that you are the most generous and forgiving person in the world."

"I was afraid," said I, "that you were offended with me; but you are not, are you, since you've asked me to come?"

"Offended?" said Miss Phyllis. "My dear Gerald, whatever made you think that? You're a dear. See, I've got it on."

I did see; and to my horror I realized for the first time that the glistering object which I had been admiring so much in Phyllis' chiffon was the brooch I had ordered for Laura.

"That," I gasped, "is a little memento of our—of my engagement."

"Yes," said Phyllis, smiling. "I consider myself really engaged now."

"You don't mean to say," I stammered, "that you—"

"Oh, but I do!" she interrupted. "Really, really I do!" and her eyes sparkled.

"There is a mistake somewhere," I explained confusedly. "I—that is you—I mean I am engaged."

"Naturally," said Phyllis, raising her eyebrows. "We are both engaged—aren't we splendid?"

"But," I managed to ejaculate at last, with more force than politeness, "I'm engaged to some one else, not to you."

This speech, blunt and plain enough in its way, seemed to afford Phyllis infinite amusement. She curled herself up more, tightly in her chair, and fairly quivered with suppressed merriment.

"Don't you understand?" I explained. "I'm engaged to Miss Ainsley—Laura Ainsley, and—of course, I'm awfully sorry, but that was sent you by mistake."

Phyllis managed to subdue her laughter.

"My dear Gerald, please don't look like that," she said, wiping the tears from her eyes with an absurd little pocket handkerchief. "You needn't look so woe-begone, even if you did think I was going to accept you. I promise not to marry you. Can't you see? You went into Somerton's and ordered this brooch and told them to send it direct to the lady's house. It never seems to have occurred to you to mention her name and as they had made something for me at your order in answer they naturally concluded that this was for me, too, and sent it on by a messenger with your card. I knew it was a mistake, so I sent the maid down to inquire. It was not difficult to guess the truth."

"Oh!" said I, lamely.

"There, here you are, you silly boy!" she said, holding out the brooch. "Run away to Laura with it, and forgive me for playing a practical joke on you; but you did look such a picture of dismay!"

"Won't you keep it, please," said I, humbly. "I ought to pay a penalty for my stupidity."

"It's awfully good of you, Gerald, and it's pretty; but I don't know that I ought to. I've been engaged since Wednesday, you see, to Capt. Mahon."

"The very thing!" I cried, turning to the inscription on the back. "I was engaged on Wednesday, too; see, here's the date."

Phyllis looked.

"It does seem to fit it, pretty," she said. "May I really keep it?"

"Please do," said I, "and if he says anything tell him it was a premature Christmas offering."

I am glad the mistake happened after all, for I am fond of Phyllis. And—er—Capt. Mahon, or whatever his name is, is a lucky man.—Home Chat.

"HERE YOU ARE, YOU SILLY BOY."

WOMAN HOME
ELECTRICAL COOKING.
It Has Proved a Great Success Wherever It Has Been Given a Thorough Trial.

Electricity is making its way into the kitchen through the parlor and dining-room, says the Cosmopolitan. For some time it has been used for the heating of the five-o'clock tea kettle, eliminating the dangers which are always incurred when an alcohol lamp is used. A tea kettle, coffee pot or chafing dish may be adjusted to the nearest lamp in a house wired for electric lighting.

The experienced cook knows that there are dishes which are never seen in their perfection ten feet from the fire that cooked them. People who have passed their youth in the country grow jealous over the way years have deteriorated the flavor of some simple early favorite of the table. Electrical appliances have done something to bring back the old conditions. Griddle cakes baked on a steel griddle, electrically heated to the exact temperature, lightly brushed with oil, are a crisp delight as they are slipped from griddle to plate. But while this appliance can be used with the illuminating current, it requires an extra attachment, as that current is too weak. This is generally put in at the leg of the dining-table. Up to this time electricity has been used almost exclusively by the woman who makes a fad of experimental cooking, and she has her electric kitchen fitted up like a small laboratory, far from the domain of the family cuisine.

The whole paraphernalia might fit into a tiled closet almost anywhere, so hooded and ventilated that no odor escapes into the surrounding rooms. In one of the apartment houses in New York city little electric kitchens have been fitted up where the tenants have asked for them, although the apartments were not designed for house-keeping originally.

JUDGMENT SUSPENDED.

How a Little Chicago Girl Took the Word of Censure Out of Her Mother's Mouth.

One little Chicago girl is a born diplomat. Last Friday she was up to all kinds of mischief, unmindful of her mother's repeated warnings, and finally she wound up by getting the baby and her younger sister and taking them out on the roof of the house for a romp. Her mother found them hanging over the edge, watching the people on the pavement far below, and after she had carried them safely downstairs she administered a severe rebuke to the ringleader. This so angered the little miss that she seized a sheet of sticky fly paper and plastered it on baby's head, just to relieve her feelings. For the next two hours the entire household was engaged in separating the baby from the paper, and when this operation was finally completed the mother called the little one to her and talked to her very seriously indeed, winding up with "I think you are the most mischievous little imp I have ever seen."

"I'VE HEARD LOTS OF PEOPLE."

"Why, mamma," replied the little one, her blue eyes wide with innocent amazement. "I've heard lots of people who come here say: 'Why, Mrs. Brown, I never saw such lovely children!'"

And then the judgment was suspended while the court took a recess.—Chicago Daily News.

Delicious Apple Charlotte.
An excellent home-made apple charlotte is prepared as follows: Line the inside of a pudding dish with thin slices of home-made bread, moderately well buttered on both sides. Peel, core and slice a quantity of sour apples, put in a thin layer of apple in the dish, spice to taste, and a liberal quantity of sugar, then add a layer of any kind of home-made preserves and so on until the dish is full. Put slices of buttered bread on top, and bake until quite brown and crisp on top.

Simple Table Decoration.
A pretty table decoration can be arranged with pressed ferns. The centerpiece should be of growing ferns, and foliage of the same green should be strewn upon the cloth in careless but artistic profusion. Fresh ferns cannot so well be used for this purpose, as their leaves are apt to turn and wrinkle. The pressed variety is obtainable of any florist and can be used many times if properly put away in a flat box or between the leaves of a book.

Oyster Toast.
Oyster toast makes a charming little supper dish. Allow four oysters for each person, mince them fine and beat with a teaspoonful of butter, salt, pepper and nutmeg when hot add the beaten yolk of an egg and two table-spoonsful of rich cream stir and when the egg is set pour on buttered toast.

MANAGES A SAWMILL.
St. Louis Society Girl Gives Up the Luxuries of Home to Follow an Arizona Plant.

Miss Amelia Judson, of St. Louis, became an Arizona sawmillier all in one day. Her brother had invested $38,000 in timber lands and built a sawmill and established the Judson lumber camp, 22 miles northeast of Williams, Ariz. He made a specialty of timber suitable for boxes for the California fruit trade and from the start was successful. In June, 1923, young Judson's mother and sister came to visit him. Miss Judson had just finished a course at Cornell university and expected, after leaving Arizona to go to Paris to study art.

MISS AMELIA JUDSON.
(St. Louis Society Girl Who Manages a Western Sawmill.)

But misfortune prevented. Only a week before she and her mother had intended to return to St. Louis, Andrew Judson became suddenly ill with typhoid fever and died. That was last October.

There was but one thing to do. Three important contracts for lumber and box material were in course of fulfillment when the ambitious young lumberman died. Both mother and daughter realized that thousands of dollars of their money was tied up in the lumber camp and that the only way to save it, avoiding the sacrifice of a forced sale, was to keep the plant in operation.

And so it was that college-bred Amelia Judson became a sawmillier in the heart of the Bill Williams mountains of Arizona. She went to the office and took charge. The rough men who saw her wondered at her temerity and hardihood; then they admired her pluck and determined to help her in every way possible. She went into the woods with the logging teams and learned every detail of the work of converting a standing tree into lumber or fruit boxes. She got out her brother's contracts in time, took further orders and prospered at every turn. "Running a sawmill has passed the experimental stage with me," said Miss Judson. "The fact that we have made money every month since February, or since I got the run of the work, is no credit of mine, but the result of my brother's establishment of the business. I like the work very much, and I shall no doubt continue it. I am never lonesome out there in the camp, for the work so occupies all my waking hours that I never have time to dwell on sentimentalities."

HOW TO WALK UP STAIRS.

When an Equal Distribution of the Body's Weight Is Secured It's an Easy Task.

A physician who declared that few people know how to walk upstairs properly was asked to describe how it should be done. He said: "Usually a person will tread on the ball of his foot in taking each step. This is very tiresome and wearing on the muscles, as it throws the entire suspended weight of the body on the muscles of the legs and feet. You should, in walking or climbing stairs, seek for the most equal distribution of the body's weight possible."

In walking upstairs your feet should be placed squarely down on the step, heel and all, and then the work should be performed slowly and deliberately. In this way there is no strain upon any particular muscle, but each one is doing its duty in a natural manner. The woman who goes up stairs with a spring in her philosophy, or at least she is not making a proper use of her reasoning faculties. The habit, too, of bending over half double when ascending a flight of stairs is exceedingly reprehensible. In any exertion of this kind, when the heart is naturally excited to more rapid action, it is desirable that the lungs should have full play. The crouching position interferes with their action, the blood is imperfectly aerated, and there is trouble at once. Give the lungs a chance to do their work everywhere and at all times."

With the most careful calculation, says Mrs. Lincoln, there is frequently coffee left over; not enough, perhaps, for another serving as a beverage, but too much to be wasted. Do not leave it in the pot with the grounds, but pour it off or strain it carefully, and if it be used again hot let it just come to the boiling point. This will be much nicer than to reheat it with the grounds. It may be used to dilute the egg for the next morning's coffee, or as a flavoring in custards, creams and ices; or as the liquid in place of or with milk in gingerbread, cookies, cakes, etc., or when there is a sufficient quantity, it can be made into jelly.

Women as House Painters.
Berlin has added house painting to the daily increasing list of men's trades now followed by women. The women have served a regular apprenticeship, including gymnastic training, so that they will not lose their nerve while working on scaffolds or ladders. They wear the gray linen frock and cap that is the house painter's badge, as well as his shield from paint.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.
If there is one thing on which the housewife prides herself, it is that of having her laundering done nicely, so that the wearing apparel may be the admiration of all. The washing is a small matter, any one almost can do that, but to have the linens present that flexible and glossy appearance after being ironed requires a fine quality of starch.

Ask your grocer for a coupon book which will enable you to get the first two packages of this new starch—"Red Cross" trade mark brand, also two of the children's Shakespeare pictures painted in twelve beautiful colors as natural as life, or the Twentieth Century Girl Calendar, all absolutely free.

This is one of the grandest offers ever made to introduce "Red Cross" laundry starch, J. C. Hubinger's latest invention.

GOLF AS A TEMPER TEST.

A Luckless Player Demonstrates How Easy It Is to Control One's Self.

A golf story which should certainly be added to the already excellent number to which the game has given birth, possesses an advantage which cannot be claimed for all of them, that of being absolutely authentic. An Englishman, who was somewhat of a type at golf, though of great distinction at other forms of athletics, had a series of misfortunes with which most people can sympathize. He was playing against a man whose opinion he valued, and he consistently topped his ball, sliced it, pulled it, hit it into a tree, played a fine backstroke into a bunker, and made extraordinary mistakes in general, to quote in words which he had heard generally across the hole into the long grass which skirted the green.

At first the player's demeanor was eminently sweet; he seemed positively to enjoy his strokes; then he grew mad; then he grew apparently careless, though his caddy noticed the earnestness which he assumed, as he was pressing home his point. The most of golf is that you can never deceive either your caddy or your ball. At last, at the seventh hole, he grew wonderfully calm, and marched off to the next teeing ground, remarking to his trembling caddy that he would not trouble to hole out. After an easy preliminary putt he topped his ball, which he took away and said to the caddy: "Then the man took all his clubs and broke them one by one across his knee, remarking quietly to his opponent that it is better to break your infernal clubs than to lose your infernal temper."—London Telegraph.

COMMERCIAL WIT.

A Parcel of Puns That Were Worked Out All Night But They Didn't Take.

Four traveling men sat on the sidewalk in front of the Windsor the other night telling stories. The man who smoked stogies had just finished a remarkable tale.

"Reminds me of what the pulp-it said to his fellow prisoner," commented the man with the razor brush.

"What was that?" he said, "as the result of a moment of abstraction?"

The pun fell with a dull sickening thud. But the man who smoked stogies came to the front again.

"Like the incendiary, eh? There is some similarity. He was there because of his habit of making hay out of them."

The following man refused to be silent.

"Just did you hear about the forger?"

"No, why?"

"He was there on account of a simple desire to make a name for himself."

The man with the stogie meditated.

"That reminds me of the burglar," he casually remarked. "There was a tremendous stage wait and the man who liked apple jack gave way to curiosity."

"Why?"

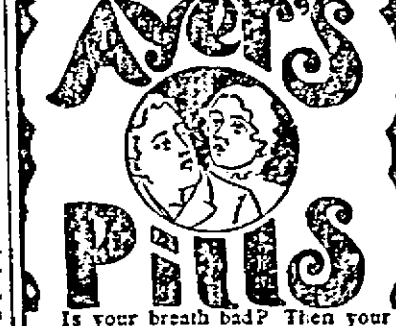

"As he said, through nothing but taking advantage of an opening which offered in a large mercantile establishment."

The following man had departed, leaving a wife far reaching void.—St. Paul Globe.

HON. THOS. JONES

Will Come to Beautiful Rhinelander to Reside.

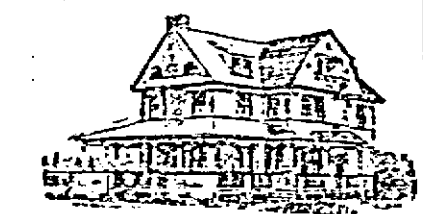

Is A Desirable Addition to the City's Business and Social Circles—
A Klondiker's Gold.

HE WILL BUILD A HOUSE INTERESTING GOSSIP CONCERNING THE JONES FAMILY.

(Copyright, 1908-1909, by GEORGE S. SALLER)

The Hon. Thomas Jones, who is a well-known and successful stock raiser and farmer, has sold his farm in Iowa and will soon come to Rhinelander to reside in order to give his family the benefit of the excellent social and educational advantages for which this city is noted. Mr. Jones has been known in his community as a man whose word is as good as a bond, and his fellow-townsmen have availed themselves of his ability by placing him on the school board, electing him a supervisor of his township, and sending him to the state legislature. Mr. Jones is a graduate of the Michigan Agricultural college, while Mrs. Jones was educated at Olivet. They have two daughters and one son—Miss Jones, Winifred and Tom. The former are much given to music, a taste inherited from their talented mother.

It is understood that by the death of a distant relative, who gained a large fortune in the Klondike, the Joneses have come into a very tidy fortune and mean to get all the good out of it that money can secure.

The Hon. Thomas Jones has bought lots in a desirable location and let the contract for building a handsome, modern twelve-room cottage to cost about $5,000. The walls and floor of the bath room will be covered with white tiles and the floor of the vestibule with mosaics. Winifred and Tom, Jr., insisted that there should be a bicycle room and the architect readily evolved one that will be used in many of his future plans for modern homes. The Joneses purpose giving a reception on the completion of their new house, which no doubt will prove a notable social event.

Joneses in Rhinelander.
Hon. Thomas Jones and family were in Rhinelander Saturday, and a representative of the New North found one of Mr. Marquardt's "Selected Havana" cigars, and was "hunted" a very pleasant interview. The reporter learned that the family was in the city for the purpose of contracting for the materials for and the building of their new house, arranging for its furnishing in all its details, and purchasing supplies. Mr. Jones believed they could complete their buying in two days, as they had in mind nearly everything wanted. They had obtained copies of the New North some time ago, and from a close study of its advertising and local news columns had learned of the people who kept the goods desired. After making their purchases, they would leave for a visit to Mr. Jones' boyhood home in Fulton county, N. Y., and return only when their house was nearly completed.

Jones Visits a Bank.
Thomas Jones visited the Merchants State bank and presented a letter of introduction from the president of the First National of Milwaukee. He had placed to his credit a certificate of deposit for $10,000. Mr. Jones secured a check book, left his signature, and told Cashier M. H. Raymond that he had carefully investigated the Merchants State bank and was pleased to open an account with them. He expected to pay out a number of checks in the next two days, as he would purchase largely before going east. Mr. Jones learned that the Merchants State bank pays interest at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent. on deposits remaining six months or longer, and he placed $100 to the credit of both Winifred and Tom, Jr., as the nucleus for a savings fund for each.

Jones Invests in Real Estate.
Hon. Thomas Jones had been in correspondence with E. H. Keith, the well-known dentist and real estate dealer, in regard to purchasing desirable lots upon which to build his new house. He found Mr. Keith in his office in the Merchants State bank building, and they went out to inspect the property, which was in the Pellenn addition. Mr. Jones was satisfied with the lots and the reasonable price named, and expressed his faith in Rhinelander realty. The transfer of the property was made. Mr. Jones also bought several lots off Mr. Keith in the South Park and Coon & Barnes' additions, as an investment. Then Mr. Jones smilingly remarked he could now claim to be a citizen and property owner of Rhinelander.

Will Build Jones' House.
G. W. Beers, the well-known contractor and builder, easily secured the contract to build Hon. Thomas Jones' beautiful $5,000 cottage. His reputation for excellent, conscientious work has won Mr. Jones a satisfactory job. The many fine public buildings and residences erected by Mr. Beers in Rhinelander are enduring monuments to his skill and ability. Among the more recent contracts the New North might mention the handsome residences of Messrs. B. B. Lewis, John Barnes and Sam Conroy, the three buildings for the seven door factory, the Coon & Chafey block and the Schlitz Brewing Co.'s building on the corner of Fifth and Anderson streets, just completed.

Stipulates for the "Round Oak."
The Hon. Thomas Jones stipulates in his contract that the "Round Oak" furnace shall be used in his new home. Mr. Jones is a twentieth-century man in his ideas of home comfort. The Lewis Hardware Co. will supply the "Round Oak" furnace for Mr. Jones and also do the tin work on his new house.

Secures the Order.
There was considerable competition to sell Jones his builders' hardware and there was not much difference in prices. The men who advertised secured the order. "In the copies of the New North sent me," said Mr. Jones, "I read the Lewis Hardware Co.'s advertisement. Now as a stranger, I appreciate the courtesy of being invited to visit their store, and I know from experience that the men who advertise are progressive dealers and the goods they keep the latest and best goods in their lines." The Lewis Hardware Co.'s prices were satisfactory, and they received Mr. Jones' order for the builders' hardware and also sold him one of the celebrated Majestic steel ranges.

Will Use the Lewis Hardware Co.'s Paints.
The Lewis Hardware Co. will furnish the paints to be used on both the inside and outside of Thomas Jones' new house. They include strictly pure brands of white lead and oil, and the famous Heath & Milligan paints. The Lewis Hardware Co.'s paints always give satisfaction. They will also furnish the Diamond wall finish for Jones' walls.

Paper or No Paper.
The question of using wall paper or not using it in a new house, was one difficult for Mrs. Jones to decide. She appealed to Mr. Jones, but he only said, "Please yourself, my dear. I will be satisfied either way." Mrs. Jones came to J. J. Reardon's City Drug Store, saw a beautiful pattern of paper, hesitated and was lost. She went into the store. Mr. Jones smilingly followed. She was shown so many handsome patterns for walls and ceilings that she could do no less than compromise, and ordered paper for several rooms from Mr. Reardon's new styles for 1909, believing it would give them a more cozy effect.

Will Spread the Paint.
G. P. Alexander, the well-known artist of the brushes, will do the decorating, painting and paper hanging in Thomas Jones' new house. Mr. Alexander's reputation as a competent, artistic workman insures the Joneses satisfactory and conscientious work. Mr. Alexander makes a specialty of sign writing, and many of the handsome signs displayed on Rhinelander's business buildings are the work of his artistic brush. Mr. Alexander also does carriage painting. His shop is on Stevens street, opposite the Rapids House.

Wanted Advice.
In settling the estate of his deceased Klondiker relative, there arose some knotty legal points concerning which Hon. Thomas Jones felt that he must have competent advice. He consulted with Levi J. Billings, the well-known attorney, whose office is in Gray's block, 221 Brown street. Mr. Billings smoothed out all the difficulties and explained so clearly the procedure to be adopted by Hon. Jones that he could not go wrong. Mr. Jones was satisfied that he had taken into good hands, and arranged with Mr. Billings to draw up a number of important legal papers.

Spafford & Cole
will supply the carpets, rugs, curtains, portieres and draperies for Thomas Jones' new house. But few carpets will be used, as nearly all the floors will be covered with the handsome Daghestan, Smyrna and other rugs sold by this firm. Mrs. Jones has selected beautiful Renaissance and Saxony Brussels lace and bobbinet ruffled curtains from Spafford & Cole's extensive new stock, and is especially well pleased with them. She also chose some pretty linoleums and Chinese and Japanese matting.

Sells Jones Furniture.
When it comes to buying furniture for the new house, the entire Jones family was called in for consultation. Mrs. Jones selected the more important articles for the principal rooms, aided by an occasional suggestion from Mr. Jones. The young ladies and Tom, Jr., were given the happy privilege of choosing furniture for their respective rooms, and they were not long in making their choice. The goods were bought of Morrill & Barber, who agreed that the delivery should be made as soon as the Joneses were ready to receive them. Mrs. Jones decided to have several of her most choice paintings reframed from mouldings which she selected from Morrill & Barber's elegant new stock of mouldings.

China and Glassware.
A man is known by the company he keeps, and a woman is known by the table she sets. Mrs. Jones had this in mind when she inspected the china department of The Fair store, in the Himmann building, Davenport street. She efficiently kept it in mind during her purchases, for the check left was for a large sum. Mrs. Jones found that S. J. Seabury, the proprietor, gave remarkable values in dinner sets, tea sets and toilet sets. The patterns were 1899 goods, and included the choicest goods of noted manufacturers. Mr. Seabury's department of art china is very complete, and well pays an inspection by lovers of bric-a-brac. Mrs. Jones added several treasures from this department to her decorative gems. With the exception of two beautiful lamps bought, The New North cannot enumerate the goods. Rhinelander's lucky 400 will be given an opportunity to see the elegant table service when the Joneses have their house-warming. The Fair store will soon have an elegant line of holiday goods on display.

Sensible Thomas Jones.
Then Hon. Thomas Jones proceeded to hunt up an insurance office. He easily found Sam S. Miller's office over the First National Bank, and arranged to place $5,000 insurance on his new house and $2,500 on the furniture and other personal effects, in the well-known and reliable old line companies represented by Mr. Miller. These companies have an enviable reputation for prompt and equitable settlement of claims, and include such companies as the North America, Aetna, and Liverpool, London and Globe companies, whose names are household words. Mr. Miller also writes tornado insurance. Mr. Jones had long thought of increasing his life insurance, and finding W. A. Clark, the representative of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, located in Mr. Miller's office, took out a policy in this popular company. Mr. Clark writes a policy to fit the desire of any man seeking protection for his family or as an investment.

Canvass the Day.
The Joneses met at supper and all were well pleased with the day's experience. Each had a hearty appetite and did justice to the excellent meal. The girls and Tom, Jr., had been inspecting the city. They were enthusiastic over the high school and its library, the court house, the churches and the many handsome business blocks and residences.

The family spent the evening in the private parlor assigned to their use. In order to divide up the work for the next day, Mr. Jones said he would look after the buying of a carriage and harness. He would order The New North to follow them east, as by its regular perusal they would become familiarized with their future townspeople. He had also a little shopping to do, and must order a dress suit for the reception. His only one was getting positively shabby. Mrs. Jones said she had better get a traveling bag for the railway trip east, and the girls needed new gowns for the reception. She believed her time would be occupied nearly the whole of the morning.

The Misses Jones agreed to meet their mother at 10:30 o'clock at the Cash Department Store. Tom Jones, Jr., was assigned the duty of looking up and recommending a grocer, meat dealer, baker, and laundryman. The head of the family said that the most important thing yet to buy was the bicycle. Tom said that the selection of bicycles deserved the most time and consideration. It was agreed that the inspection of bicycles should be made the special order for the afternoon, and chosen in committee of the whole.

The family separated, each considering the assignments for the morning. Jones Buys a Fine Carriage.
Anyone who knows the pleasure there is in splashing along with a fine turnout under the shady trees of our beautiful city, on the fine streets and country roads, will commend Mr. Jones for looking about for the finest carriage in the market. He went to the carriage repository of the Lewis Hardware Co. and was surprised to get such an elegant carriage at so reasonable a price. He selected one of the finest Studebaker Bros' carriages these enterprising dealers had in stock.

Jones Buys Harness.
Hon. Thomas Jones knew that not one of his harnesses would be in keeping with the new carriage, so he went to C. H. Roepcke's and bought a set of finest, hand-made light double harness which Roepcke's shop is noted for turning out. The price was attractive as well as the harness. Mr. Roepcke keeps a full line of robes, blankets, whips, collars, straps and horse furnishings, and does repairing of all kinds. He repairs and newly covers carriage tops.

Jones and the Jeweler Agreed.
Thomas Jones looked at his watch, and much to his surprise found it but 10 o'clock. He was then in front of J. Segerstrom's handsomely fitted jewelry store, and a look at the regulator showed him that his watch was way behind. It had stopped. "Nothing like taking a stitch in time," murmured the Hon. Thomas, and he placed his fine timepiece in Mr. Segerstrom's hands. A brief inspection showed that his watch needed cleaning, and Mr. Segerstrom promised to have it done that evening. He complimented Mr. Jones upon carrying a good watch.

Mr. Jones desired to select some gifts for his friends east, but in the multiplicity of beautiful goods shown by Mr. Segerstrom, was at a loss to decide. He at length selected a dozen hand-engraved souvenir spoons of Rhinelander, and Mrs. Jones complimented his choice.

Jones and the Dress Suit.
Mr. Jones had one more commission to give before lunch, and that was for a dress suit. He found exactly what he desired at E. C. Danielson's tailoring establishment, 217 Brown street, and was satisfied that he would make a favorable impression at the reception. Mr. Danielson's line of suitings, overcoatings and trousseaus and his prices were so attractive that Mr. Jones arranged to have Tom, Jr., leave his measure and have the suit forwarded. Mr. Danielson carries everything to be found in a first-class tailoring establishment, and he does pressing and remaking promptly and satisfactorily.

Jones Was Reminded.
The ordering of a dress suit brought to Hon. Thomas Jones' mind the fact that he needed some white shirts. He stopped into Beers & Co.'s clothing store and before he left had placed an order for half a dozen of their Star brand of white shirts, a Rosville hat, several suits of Wright's sanitary underwear, and half a dozen of the Union League fancy shirts for Tom, Jr., and selected an excellent silk umbrella. A walking stick accompanied it, and Mr. Jones was at first inclined to reject it as childish, but he acknowledged that Tom, Jr., might adopt it when he went to college, and had it put in the bill. The Hon. Tom learned that Beers & Co. sell ready-to-wear clothing bearing their own label, made especially for their trade. Purchasers buy their clothing with confidence, knowing that Beers & Co. stand back of all garments bearing their label. They carry a fine line of trunks, satchels and telescopes.

It Counts.
Whether the familiar saying that "clothes may make or mar the man," be true or not, there can be no question as to the improving effects of a luxurious bath, a modern hair cut or a clean shave. The Hon. Jones and Tom, Jr., found the Bank bath rooms and barber shop, under the Brown bank, C. J. Sims, manager, the ideal place for a bath, hair cut or shave. The furnishings of the Bank barber shop are first-class. Including the easiest of chairs, fine mirrors and modern sanitary bath tubs. Everything about the shop is kept scrupulously clean.

Delight of Women.
Mrs. Thomas Jones is not hypercritical in the matter of dress, but everything she wears is selected with the best of taste. An attractive millinery display in the window of Mrs. N. Turner's store, immediately to the east of the Joneses' residence, was soon canvassing the merits of half a dozen pattern hats, and selected a beautiful Spanish tarlatan, with old rose plush, fish scale felt, jet spray and handsome black plumes. This is one of the latest creations in the millinery art. A duplicate can be seen in the show window at Mrs. Turner's. Mrs. Jones is so well satisfied with the stock displayed, the low prices, and the courtesy shown her that she volunteered to give Mrs. Turner future orders.

Selected Their Gowns.
When the door of the Cash Department store was opened by a clerk at 10:30 o'clock for Mrs. Jones' entrance, she intended to select simple gowns for her daughters which could be worn at other functions than the reception. Miss Jones and Winifred, however, had arrived at the store in advance of their mother, and already an attentive clerk was displaying lovely, shimmering dress fabrics, which were greeted with expressions of rapture from the young ladies. Mrs. Jones approved a turquoise blue satin, with chiffon, for Miss Jones, who is of a blonde type, with brown hair, gray eyes, and has satiny white arms and neck.

For Winifred Mrs. Jones bought a gown of white organdie and gold plaid for a street skirt. The organdie will be made simply, as Mrs. Jones is one of the mothers who believes in keeping her daughters as girls as long as she can. Mr. Jones also bought one of the well-known Henderson corsets for herself, several pairs of the Systeme Jay gloves, and some hose, and expressed herself well pleased with the Cash Department Store's elegant new stock of fall and winter furs, cloaks, jackets and dress goods.

Will Make the Reception Gowns.
Mrs. Jones and her daughters next called on Mrs. P. P. Barnes, whose dressmaking parlors are at 1111 Stevens street, in regard to the making of the reception gowns. The young ladies displayed a lively interest in the discussion which ensued. Mrs. Jones was so well pleased with the costumes designed by Mrs. Barnes that she left the decision with her. Mrs. Barnes will make the skirt of Miss Jones' reception gown of turquoise blue satin, finished at the bottom with an accordion pleated flounce of chiffon of the same color. The corsage to be made of velvet, the same color as the skirt, in a darker shade, and trimmed with ruchings of the same color.

Mrs. Barnes will make Winifred's white organdie overwhite silk tulle, with ruffles trimmed with lace, and a sash of white moire.

Miss Jones Wears "Ultra" Shoes.
Miss Jones had read the page advertisement in the Ladies' Home Journal of the world-renowned "Ultra" ladies' shoe at $2.50, and on inquiry she found that they were sold in Rhinelander exclusively by Spafford & Cole. She found the "Ultra" shoe more satisfactory than many a shoe she had paid $5 for, and strongly recommended them to her mother and Winifred. Among the well-known lines of men's shoes carried by Spafford & Cole are Henderson's, Bradley & Metcalf's and the North Star.

Are Behind the Times.
The family met for lunch and found their table decorated with handsome bouquets of fragrant roses, while silverware, china and cut glass had been ordered out in honor of the occasion. The family's numerous and heavy purchases had been talked of in business circles, and many cards and envelopes were piled beside Mr. Jones' plate. Invitations to join the Woman's club for Mrs. Jones, the card of the mayor of the city, and numerous circulars of tradesmen, comprised the pile. Mr. Jones was seen to shrug his shoulders at the circulars. "The men who do not advertise in newspapers are unusual, behind the times, my dear," he remarked to Mrs. Jones. The circulars were removed with the soup plates.

Tom, Jr. Buys a Bicycle.
As the dessert was being eaten and the first look faded from his father's face, Tom, Jr., broached the subject of bicycles. The whole family agreed to go directly after dinner and assist him to select a wheel. They went to M. P. Sherfinski's, on Stevens street, and Tom, Jr., bought an elegant first-class wheel from Mr. Sherfinski.

who sells an excellent wheel for a small amount of money. He also carries all kinds of bicycle sundries and supplies, and makes a specialty of the acetylene lamp. Mr. Sherfinski does all kinds of difficult repairing, quickly and at moderate prices. He has wheels to rent, and does gun smithing.

Care J. J. Reardon's City Drug Store a Call.
As she came to J. J. Reardon's City drug store, Mrs. Jones remembered that she wanted a bottle of Colgate's Caprice perfume, and found it in Mr. Reardon's fine line of perfumes. The girls purchased a bottle of Woodbury's Facial Cream for the complexion. Tom, Jr., selected a handsome brush and comb and promised his mother to make a trial of getting his curls loose into order. The Hon. Tom bought a toilet case and a handsome purse from the large assortment of gentlemen's purses carried by the City drug store.

Mrs. Jones Orders Invitations.
Mrs. Jones ordered invitations for the reception from The New North job room. She thought 200 would be sufficient. She was pleased with the samples shown her, and placed her order with the date of the reception to be determined later.

They Bought Books.
Mrs. Jones is a great admirer of Frances Hodgson Burnett and Lundy Kipling. Her favorites of these authors are "Little Lord Fauntleroy" by Mrs. Burnett and "Captains Courageous" by Kipling. She did not thoroughly approve of "A Lady of Quality," but understood that its companion book by Mrs. Burnett,

"His Grace the Duke of Osmond," was irreproachable. She was told she would find all the latest books at C. C. Bronson & Co.'s store, directly opposite the postoffice. Mrs. Jones bought a copy of "David Harmer" and several other magazines, and selected some stationery from C. C. Bronson & Co.'s stock. This firm keeps all the prominent daily papers for sale.

Improved Their Sight.
Mr. and Mrs. Jones had for some time felt the need of eye-glasses, but each had delayed adopting them, waiting for the other. Mr. Jones suggested that now, while they were coming among new acquaintances, would be an excellent time to make a beginning, as it would not seem at all awkward. Mrs. Jones was of the same mind, and they called upon J. Segerstrom, jeweler and optician, who makes a specialty of fitting the eyes. Mr. Segerstrom tested their eyesight, sold them the glasses they needed, and they were surprised and pleased at the improvement in their sight. Mr. Jones highly praised Mr. Segerstrom upon his ability and the thorough understanding he showed of the needs of failing eyesight of each individual, and the skillful manner in which the fitting was done.

Inspects a Market.
Tom, Jr., critically inspected C. W. Chatterton's market from the outside. Everything to be seen indicated cleanliness. Then he went inside. His inspection here was satisfactory, too. The plump yellow-legged chickens, tender looking steaks, well browned hams, etc., and the white-aproned, cleanly-appearing men in charge convinced Tom, Jr., that the family could not go wrong in buying their meats of C. W. Chatterton. Mr. Chatterton sells the best of oysters in their season.

Chooses a Grocer.
Tom, Jr., adopted a novel plan by which to choose a grocer. He went to G. P. Dean & Co.'s, corner of Stevens and Davenport streets, and waited to see if he would be served in his turn. The show of goods outside and inside the store was large and attractive, and included all kinds of staple and fancy groceries, foreign and domestic fruits, etc. A number of people were ahead of him, and others entered after him. Much to Tom, Jr.'s surprise and gratification, when his turn came he was courteously asked how he could be served. He found that G. P. Dean & Co. kept for sale Chase & Sanborn's celebrated Standard Mocha and Java blend coffee, such as his father liked, and the same firm's sun-dried Japan tea which his mother always drank. He bought some bananas and went away convinced that a firm which recognized the rights of a boy would be equally conscientious in selling goods. G. P. Dean & Co. will furnish the Joneses with groceries. This firm sells the well-known Ceresota flour.

Visits a Bakery.
Although brought up on a farm, Tom, Jr., has a well-developed sweet tooth, and next to visiting a candy shop he enjoys the privileges of a bakery. He went to J. N. Keeble's bakery, and while stowing away a nickel's worth of jelly roll inspected the stock. The bread looked deliciously browned and appetizing, the cakes were the acme of a housewife's dream, and as Tom's last mouthful of jelly roll was put where it would do him the most good, he decided that J. N. Keeble's bread and cakes were just what the Jones family was looking for.

Next to Goodness.
Tom, Jr., recommended the Model Steam Laundry for individual washings. They use nothing at this laundry that will injure the fabric, and their work is delivered promptly on time. They make a specialty of fine work, including lace curtains, ladies' skirts, shirt waists and collars and cuffs, and their charges are moderate. Goods called for and delivered to any part of the city free. Rush work a specialty. Laundry and office on Stevens street.

The Oneida House—C. A. Horn, Proprietor.
The question is often asked by the traveler of moderate means, "Where can I get clean, comfortable accommodations at a moderate price?" This is satisfactorily answered in Rhinelander by referring the inquirer to the Oneida House, kept by C. A. Horn. This house has thirty rooms, well-furnished and lighted and clean. The tables are supplied with the best in the market, and the cooking and dining room service are first-class. The house keeps a lunch counter, where lunches can be had at any hour or at regular meal times. The rates of the Oneida are but a dollar a day.

View of the Suburbs.
Mrs. Jones expressed a desire for a drive, and Mr. Jones sent Tom, Jr., to Joslin & Chafey's livery stable, and a fine double carriage drawn by an elegant span of spotted bays and driven by a gentlemanly appearing man, was soon at the hotel. The Jones family was driven to various points of interest in and about the city, and thoroughly enjoyed the rattling pace and the crisp October air. Mrs. Jones was pleased with Rhinelander's surroundings. Mr. Jones expressed surprise at the very reasonable charge made by Joslin & Chafes for the use of the carriage. This firm has an elegant outfit of horses and carriages for weddings, parties and funerals, or for single drives. They also conduct a boarding stable in connection with their livery.

HON. THOMAS JONES.

He is an Expert.

Hon. Thomas Jones is a lover of a good horse and, like the late Robert Bonner of the New York Ledger, one of his hobbies is the proper shoeing of horses. He found a man after his own heart when he called on Ed. Rogers, the expert horseshoer, whose shop is on Thayer street, near River. Mr. Rogers has had 22 years' experience in horseshoeing and general blacksmithing and thoroughly understands the proper shoeing of horses and makes a specialty of difficult reshoeing.

Bought a Matched Carriage Team.

Mrs. Jones is not free from the desire of nearly every feminine heart to ride behind a handsome span of matched horses that can throw dust in the eyes of other friends. Neither is the Hon. Tom adverse to driving a team that can pass his neighbors on the road. Indeed, it is rumored that he has officiated in the judges' stand at many a county fair horse race in Iowa, and is a good judge of horse flesh. The commodious sales stables recently built in Rhinelander, on the corner of Brown and King streets, by the old Appleton horse firm of David Hammett & Co., was a point of interest to Mr. Jones, and Hammett & Co.'s Rhinelander manager, A. M. Rogers, made him welcome. Hammett & Co. are the oldest horse dealing firm in the United States, having been in business since 1897. They always have for sale horses for driving, farming, logging and for general purposes. Mr. Rogers has just sold to the Brown-Robbins Lumber Co. a logging team weighing 4000, one of the best ever seen in this section. The Hon. Thomas Jones commissioned Mr. Rogers to secure a finely matched carriage team for him. Mr. Rogers has been in Rhinelander 12 years, and to his untiring interest is largely due the organization and success of the Oneida county fair.

The Joneses Go East.

The Hon. Thomas Jones and family left Rhinelander for Fulton county, N. Y., on the Chicago and North-Western at 11:22 a. m. Monday. Their luggage had preceded them. The family will return in about two months, and some of Rhinelander's best people have already decided to give receptions in their honor. The progress made in the construction of Mr. Jones' handsome house will be watched with interest.

Jones Remembers the Cigars.

Landlord G. A. Horn received a letter yesterday from Hon. Thomas Jones, asking him to see Mr. Marquardt and engage half a thousand well-seasoned Selected Havana Gen. cigars for Mr. Jones' reception. He had tried this favorite brand while in Rhinelander and learned the innkeeper's name. He was sure they were all right.

Feeds the Hungry.

Mr. Kearns has recently opened a restaurant in the Stapleton block, on Stevens street, where meals and lunches are served at all hours and at very moderate prices. The appointments are first class, and the cooking everything that could be wished for. All the delicacies of the season served, and the very best oysters to be obtained can be had in any style desired. Mr. Kearns will make his restaurant especially popular with all who appreciate good food well cooked.

It is asserted that liquid air has 23 times the explosive force of dynamite. During experiments at Vienna, in the firing of cannon, the liquid air was exploded by an electric spark, and the results were extremely satisfactory. No heat was developed in the guns, and the range of the projectiles was much increased.

OVER 20,000,000 tons of poultry and nearly 50,000,000 dozen of eggs, produced in Missouri, were handled by transportation companies last year, the aggregate cash returns for which were $2,255,000. The gross value of the shipments exceeded the value of the combined shipments of wheat, corn, oats and hay, and the combined value of the shipments of lumber, logs, cross ties, piling, cooperage and cordwood.

IT is now only a matter of time when all the principal countries of Europe will be connected by telephone. Arrangements were completed a short time ago for the building of two separate lines between Berlin and Paris, and now it is understood that steps have been taken for uniting the telephone systems of France and Italy, and for constructing telephone lines between Genoa, Nice, Turin and Lyons.

PHILADELPHIA can boast of the longest asphalted street in the world. Broad street has that unique distinction. First, as already stated, it is the longest asphalted street in the world; secondly, it is the only street which is of even width for eleven miles, and this width is the greatest ever attained by any street for a course of eleven miles. It is also the straightest street, for from League Island to the county line it does not vary an inch, except once.

CROCODILES, like ostriches, swallow pebbles and small stones, which serve the purpose of grinding their food. The natives assert that it is possible to tell the age of a crocodile by the number of stones in its stomach, for they swallow one each year. In point of fact, 15 stones have been found in the stomach of a crocodile 12 feet long, whereas the number for younger ones varies between four and eight. So says Mr. Volikov, who has been studying this matter for several years.

AT Bosworth, N. H., recently nine bronze tablets marking historic sites within the town limits were dedicated. These were the birthplaces of Gen. John A. Dix, William Pitt Fessenden, ex-Gov. IN Great Britain some ten labor bureaus are established that in 1893 procured employment free of charge for nearly 15,000 persons. In Paris the same good work is being done, the state of 1893 showing that work without cost was found for 26,270 persons. In the United States agencies of this kind, some fully equipped and others in skeleton shape, have been of excellent and inestimable service to the unemployed. There are five agencies in Ohio, one in California, three were recently opened in Chicago and the good work is likely to go on in many other places.

FILIPINOS ASK FOR PEACE

Envoys from Aguinaldo Call Upon Gen. Otis in Manila and Try to Open Negotiations.

THEIR EFFORTS PROVE UNSUCCESSFUL.

So-Called Government Will Not Be Recognized - Insurgents in Mindanao Ready to Surrender - American Prisoners Are Released at Angeles.

Manila, Sept. 29. - Gen. MacArthur entered Pore after half an hour's fighting. The American loss was five killed and the insurgent loss is not known. The enemy fled northward. When the Americans entered the town they found it practically deserted.

The attacking party moved on Pore in two columns. The Ninth infantry, with two guns, from Santa Rita, was commanded by Gen. Wheeler, and the Thirty-sixth infantry, under Col. Bell, with one gun, accompanied Gen. MacArthur from San Antonio.

Again Seek Peace. Manila, Oct. 2. - The Filipino peace commission which arrived at the American lines Saturday morning brought a request from Aguinaldo that he be permitted to send a representative of his government to negotiate for peace. Gen. Otis refused the request. There will be another conference.

Otis Won't Negotiate. Aguinaldo's third attempt to shift his difficulties into the field of diplomacy is a repetition of the other one or two, with an impossible endeavor to obtain some sort of recognition of his so-called government. The Filipino envoys held an hour's conference with Gen. Otis Sunday morning. They brought from Aguinaldo a message that he desired peace and wished to send a civilian governmental commission to discuss the question. Gen. Otis replied that it was impossible for him to recognize Aguinaldo's government in that way. They presented a letter from Aguinaldo as "president of the republic," which was largely a repetition of his recent appeals for recognition. Gen. Otis informed them that, while he was willing to correspond with Aguinaldo as general of the insurgent forces, he must positively decline to recognize him as president of the civil government.

Another conference will be held today. The Filipinos will remain two or three days. Their movements are quite unrestricted, but they are under the constant chaperonage of Capt. Johnson, of the Sixteenth infantry. Sunday they visited the hospitals and distributed money among the wounded Filipinos.

Ready to Surrender. Washington, Oct. 2. - The war department has received the following from Gen. Otis: "I have a communication, dated September 12, from Gen. Garcia, commanding all the insurgent troops in eastern Mindanao. In it he expresses the desire to turn the country over to the United States authorities and surrender insurgent arms."

American Prisoners Released. Manila, Oct. 2. - Gen. Otis, Schwan, Lawton and Bates proceeded to Angeles Saturday, where they conferred with Filipino commissioners as the result of an exchange of communication between Gen. MacArthur and the insurgents.

Shortly after eight o'clock Saturday night the surrender of 11 prisoners was made. All are enlisted soldiers, who were captured in different engagements. Lieut. Gilmore and his crew of the Yorktown were not among the prisoners delivered.

CURIOS ABLAZE

Guthrie's Famous Candy Store and Historical Collection Partly Burned in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 29. - Fire at eight p. m. Thursday partly destroyed C. F. Guthrie's large candy factory at 212 State street. The loss on stock and factory is estimated at $125,000, practically without insurance. An unhappy feature of the fire was the damage done to Mr. Guthrie's almost priceless collection of historical relics, autographs, Bibles, manuscripts, Assyrian stone rolls and paintings.

Town Destroyed.

Cairo, Ill., Sept. 28. - The town of New Madrid, on the Mississippi river 49 miles below Cairo, was practically wiped out by fire soon after midnight Tuesday. Eighteen business houses were burned. Only one grocery is left in the town. The loss is reported at nearly $100,000.

Gen. Wood Reports. Santiago de Cuba, Sept. 28. - Gen. Wood, commanding the department of Santiago, in his annual report says the water supply in this city has been doubled, the streets improved, modern sewerage and waste systems introduced and the death rate reduced one-half.

Great Output of Gold.

Cripple Creek, Col., Oct. 2. - The gold output for the Cripple Creek district for September amounted to $1,221,000, surpassing all records. The production of gold in this district from the time of its discovery in 1891 to date is $2,027,292.

CAPT. CARTER'S DISGRACE

Dismissed from the Army, Fined $5,000 and Sentenced to a Prison Term of Five Years.

Washington, Oct. 2. - President McKinley has approved the findings of the court-martial in the case of Capt. O'Brien M. Carter, of the engineer corps. This action was kept secret almost 24 hours to permit of the prompt arrest of the convicted officer. His sentence is dismissal from the army, a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for five years.

Assistant Adj. Gen. Simpson went to New York with the order of arrest and Capt. Carter was taken into custody Saturday and transferred to a cell at Governor's Island preparatory to being sent to the military prison at Leavenworth, Kan., which has been designated as his place of confinement.

Capt. Carter was appointed military attaché at London in the summer of 1897 and had hardly reached his post of duty when he was recalled to answer charges preferred against him as the result of the alleged discovery of Capt. C. E. Childs, who succeeded him in charge of the improvement of Savannah harbor and adjacent parts of the Georgia coast.

A board of inquiry, composed of army engineers, examined the facts and heard Capt. Carter. They unanimously reported that he had failed to do his duty and that he had failed to furnish vouchers and certificates relating to absences and deceptions and misled the chief of engineers in official reports.

Testimony was given that Capt. Carter was in league with a contractor, that he was in the course of a searching inquiry made by the war department, the chief advocate of the court-martial for the case made a calculation based on testimony which showed that in creating of bogus vouchers Capt. Carter's little group of contractors had put from the government upward of $175,000 to which they were not entitled.

WAR MAY SOON BEGIN.

The Situation in South Africa Is Daily Growing More Ominous and a Struggle Seems Certain.

London, Oct. 2. - Not the faintest hint is allowed to escape as to what diplomatic communications, if any, are passing between London and South Africa. So far as the public is concerned, matters have not advanced since Friday. It is noticeable that not even the Brussels agency of the Transvaal government has yet issued Mr. Kruger's latest note to the press. The silence maintained on both sides is regarded as ominous.

From South Africa the news is wholly concerned with feverish preparations for hostilities. Commandant Gen. Joubert is reported to have said that he has 10,000 men on the Natal border and that Commandant Cronje has 2,000 on the Bechuanaland side. The British camp in the vicinity of Dundee consists of 5,000 men, with 24 guns in strong position. The Orange Free State is actively commanding. The Transvaal government has virtually taken over the Netherlands railway for military purposes and Natal trains are being turned back. Telegraph wires have been cut between Natal and Johannesburg have been cut since Friday.

The Daily News' Berlin special says that Dr. Leyds names next Tuesday as the date for a formal declaration of war by the Boers.

FAMOUS ADMIRAL IS WELL AND HAPPY.

Shore Forts Boom Out a Salute to the Warship and Her Brave Commander - The Admiral Interviewed - Officials Visit the Warship - Grand Parades and Fireworks.

New York, Sept. 27. - Admiral George Dewey arrived off New York at dawn and the Olympia is now anchored in American waters in the light of Sandy Hook. The first shout of welcome was from the pilots and crew of pilot boat No. 7, 13 miles south of the Hook light-ship. It happened to be Pilot John Peterson's turn, and at 3:20 a. m. he was put aboard the Olympia and brought her around the Hook and into the lower bay. The marine observers along the coast had sighted the Olympia in the first light of the morning. The shore batteries of Fort Hancock, manned by gunners called from breakfast, let loose 17 guns. The flagship replied with 21 and let go her anchors not far from where the cup challenger Shamrock is moored.

Home Again. The admiral was in his own country again, after 23 months' absence. He had returned "great with the arduous greatness of things done," and he scarcely seemed to realize it. The pilot had brought aboard the Sunday papers, and a reporter was received by the admiral in a cabin littered by the illustrated Dewey editions, which together made hundreds of pages in black and white and in colors, all concerning the great admiral and the preparations made to receive him.

Dewey and Sampson Meet. Admiral Dewey then had a succession of notable callers. Rear Admiral Sampson, with Capt. Chadwick, his chief of staff, and Lieutenant Commander Winslow, his flag lieutenant, came on the Dolphin. When the dispatch boat was a mile away it began firing an admiral's salute, and the Olympia replied with a rear admiral's salute of 13 guns.

A Message of Welcome. Washington, Sept. 27. - The navy department has sent the following formal message of welcome to Admiral Dewey: "Navy Department, Washington, Sept. 27. - Admiral George Dewey, Sandy Hook: The department is happy to hear of your safe arrival, and extends to you and your officers and crew the most cordial welcome. (Signed) JOHN D. LONG."

The Admiral Talks. In an interview Admiral Dewey said that the fight in the Philippines should be easily ended; that Aguinaldo was merely a tool of people to blind him; that Gen. Otis was trying to do too much; and in regard to the report that he might be the democratic nominee for president the admiral said that he was not a politician, but a sailor, and was perfectly satisfied with his calling.

Goes Up the Bay.

New York, Sept. 28. - Amid the thundering of cannon and thousands of shrieking whistles Admiral Dewey and the Olympia ran the forts in the lower bay and sailed along the Staten Island coast to the head of the fleet of warships that will make up the grand naval parade in his honor. Early in the morning Rear Admiral Hoxton, commander of the South Atlantic squadron, arrived from South Africa on his flagship, the Chicago. During the day Admiral Dewey received numerous callers, among them being Assistant Secretary of the Navy Allen, with a welcome from President McKinley, and his two brothers and other relatives also called. The admiral visited the Brooklyn navy yard and was warmly greeted. In the evening New York harbor was brilliantly illuminated.

Formally Welcomed.

New York, Sept. 29. - Admiral Dewey was formally welcomed by the national government and by the state of New York yesterday. Official calls upon the hero of Manila were made by the delegation from Washington, headed by Gen. Miles and by Gov. Roosevelt.

Farewell to the Bay.

The most striking feature of the day was the presentation by Commander George W. Baird to Admiral Dewey of the flag carried by Admiral Farragut and which has never floated to the breeze since it was used by the naval hero of the civil war. This tribute to his greatness brought tears to Dewey's eyes and in a voice broken by emotion he accepted the historic emblem.

Three hundred and fifty men who fought under Dewey at Manila were presented on board the Olympia with the bronze medals awarded them by congress.

The Naval Parade.

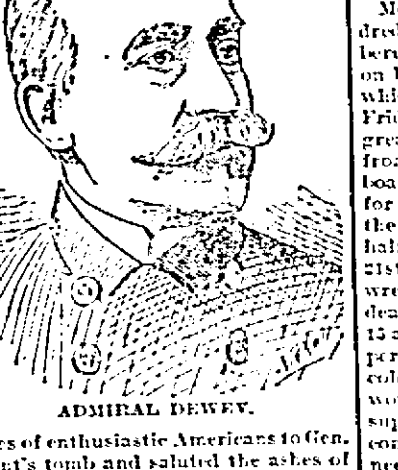

New York, Sept. 30. - The greatest sailor in the world yesterday reviewed the greatest parade in American history. It was a triumph for Dewey, for the navy and for the nation. The victor of the seas, followed by a fleet of warships and hundreds of other vessels, sailed up the Hudson between Montreal, Que., Sept. 30. - Two hundred and fifty scantily-clad, baggage-laden men, women and children were on board of an intercontinental special which steamed into Bonaventure depot Friday night. They comprised the greater number of those who sailed from Liverpool on September 11 on board the steamship Scotsman, bound for Montreal, which was wrecked on half-past two on the morning of the 21st. It was not only a tale of shipwreck that they had to tell, but one of death, of suffering and pillage. For 15 at least of the Scotsman's passengers perished; all suffered cruelly from cold and privation, and, almost the worst horror of all, the men who were supposed to succor and assist those committed to their care in the hour of need turned on the helpless passengers and with loaded guns and revolvers compelled them to part with the few valuables saved. Capt. Skrimshire and his officers were exceptions. For the honor of the British merchant marine the crime may not be ascribed to the men engaged in it, but to a gang of wharf rats and hangers-on, picked up on the docks at Liverpool to replace the usual crew of the Scotsman, which joined the seamen's strike on the other side.

All Were Women.

All who perished were women. This is accounted for by the fact that they were occupants of the first boat which left the steamer after she struck and which was swamped before it could get clear of the ship. The passengers were asleep in their berths when the ship struck on the rocks. A superficial examination of the ship told the captain that she would be a total wreck and that she must be abandoned at once. A port lifeboat was lowered and in this many of the women and children were placed. Hardly was it clear of the ship when it capsized, throwing its occupants into the water. Those who perished were in this boat. Some were saved, for the ship had listed to port and several women were washed back onto the deck.

Miserable Scenes.

Meanwhile disgraceful scenes were being enacted on board. Hardly had the vessel struck before men from the stokehold rushed into the cabins, and, sitting open valises and bags with their knives, took all the valuables they could lay their hands on. Several of them fired shotguns and tried to force men to leave their cabins. In more than one instance rings were torn from the fingers of fainting and dying women. Capt. Skrimshire and his officers could do nothing against the mob.

On a Rocky Cliff.

When morning came it was found that the Scotsman lay close inshore, alongside a cliff fully a thousand feet high. After much hard work the passengers were gotten safely ashore. A quantity of biscuit was carried on shore, and on this, with a very little corned beef and wild berries, over 200 people existed for four days. The passengers were obliged to climb up a rocky cliff nearly 200 feet high before they could find a place large enough to rest. Here they stayed on the rocks for four days and nights. It was not till the 26th that the Montfort came along and was signaled by the Belle Isle light bell, where a number of the passengers walked from the wreck. After bringing these people on board the ship she proceeded to where the Scotsman lay. The weather was bright and clear. As soon as practicable the boats were launched and the work of transferring the passengers began. The Montfort took 250 of the passengers and the steamship Gremlin, which soon after came in sight, took the remainder.
